

Do you know a child who struggles to communicate?

Children with language difficulties have so much to say...find out how you can help them.

As part of the 'Hello campaign' to raise awareness of speech and language therapy, the Michael Palin Centre for Stammering Children invites you to come to a drop in session on:

Wednesday 28th September 11.30am to 1.30pm

At 13-15 Pine Street, London, EC1R 0JH

Find out more about local services for children and young people with speech, language & communication difficulties.

Learn what parents and teachers can do to help.

Talk to speech and language therapists from local services.

Watch a short film, where children tell you about their personal experience of having a stammer.
