MASTERCLASS IN WORKING WITH CLIENTS WHO STAMMER

This one day workshop is for speech and language therapists (SLTs) who are already experienced in working with clients who stammer and would like to develop their specialist skills further.

The course will be run by an experienced member of the Michael Palin Centre team who has taught therapists both nationally and internationally.

The day will be tailor-made to suit the needs of the SLTs attending and will include clinical case discussion, skills practice, role play, problem solving and video observation.

A number of different psychological approaches will be drawn on during the day such as Brief Solution Focussed Therapy, Personal Construct Psychology and Cognitive Behavioural Therapy as appropriate.

A range of texts will be available for course participants to look through during break times.

Learning Outcomes

At the end of this course participants will:

- Be more confident about working with children who stammer
- Be more knowledgeable about options in therapy for clients with a range of needs

Course Content

Each Masterclass will be tailor-made to the group. Participants will be asked about their particular needs in advance so that the facilitating therapist can prepare relevant material for the day.

Participants may wish to bring cases to discuss or specify a particular approach or client group that they would like to focus on during the day.

This workshop will combine video-observation, skills practice, discussion and problem-solving.
